During an afternoon in 1880 Liverpool, Harold is looking after his grandfather when this old man of the sea begins the most fanciful tale describing his life with the mermaids.

Grandfather had never been one to shy away from telling a sea story, but never before had he promised that his story was ‘the truth’ and never before had he spoken of ‘the mermaids’. Harold listens with rapt attention as he learns the true nature of the beauty within the mermaids and how their love lasts forever. This short 15,000 word novella is a fast paced read appropriate for all ages.
