A little girl sees a silk moth caterpillar outside her window, and wonders what it will become when it emerges. As she waits, her wonder, imagination, nature, and the beautiful night stars cause her to transform into many different girls, animals, flowers, and mythical creatures. Based on Chinese silkworms which are native to Brooklyn, the authors vibrantly painted drawings were inspired by Japanese Kimonos, woodblock prints, Chinese and Asian art. Open source created, in consultation with beginning readers ages 4-6 by renaissance author, musician, and naturalist Vincellent. $11.49, immediate ebook download from Lulu.com.
