Don't have any idea of where to go to college? Here's how to start making your list of colleges. If you're willing to step away from the rankings spotlight, you can find some impressive programs at great values. All it takes is a little time and a visit to one of the most ignored resources in creating a college list: the college website. This book will show you: How to generate a list to start your search What preferences NOT to include on your list when you first start Critical terms you need to understand Why you need to look at course schedules instead of course catalogues Shortcuts to finding what you need on college websites Why the campus newspaper is a must visit website The best tools for tracking colleges By learning to use college websites, you'll create a better college list that will contain schools you'll be excited to apply to and actually able to afford to attend.
