A digital novella penned by Mur Lafferty, telling a tale set in Numenera's Ninth World and tied into Torment: Tides of Numenera. Part of the "From the Depths" series of novellas touching on the Silver Tide. No one knew her family. No one remembered their deaths. Chila vowed that someday, everyone would remember her. Chila and her brother are home orphans in the vertical slums of Sagus Cliffs, stealing and scamming to survive, but Chila dreams of bigger things, and vows to turn those dream into reality, no matter what the cost. Using chutzpah and trickery to sell herself as a hero to her impoverished neighbors, she makes a play for the whole city, only to find out how savagely those in power will fight to keep it. Soon she is in a far worse place than where she began, but her defeat has only made her stronger, and even more determined to climb to the top.
